Recent industry development[s]

Still a strong market, that has been growing especially the last couple of years.

Shortage of architects – not only in the practices but also in municipalities, at developers etc. Good – but less recourse to CPD, research and development.

Among the 129 Swedish studios with 10+ employees, 19 percent have a female CEO. Just three of the world's 100 biggest architecture firms are headed by women.

All three are Scandinavian.

Recent professional development[s]

New Architectural policy proposed by the Government to be decided by the Parliament.

The last one from 1998

More emphasis on how architecture can support a sustainable society for the future.

Many actions already in effect:

- Financing to authorities to support municipalities in their ambitions for architectural quality
- State and local authorities should be exemplary
  - More competence in the sector
